WORDS TO KNOW

documenting	estimated	period
valuable	vessels

Deep Diving Let's talk about an article we are going to write. We'll use all the words in our discussion.

SPELLING WORDS

relate	unfold	petal	clipper	remind
weeder	woman	tutor	gather	monster
frosty	poster	behave	cancel	tender

Give Me a Break I'll point to a spelling word. Tell me the syllables in it. If we want, we can find rhymes for the words and tell whether the rhyme has the same number of syllables.

Dear Family Member:

We are reading the nonfiction article, "Exploring the Undersea Territory." It highlights one woman in particular—Sylvia Earle. She is famous for diving without being hooked up in some way to a submarine or ship. There are many facts, things that can be proven. There are opinions also. Ms. Earle believes ignorance is the greatest threat we have about our resources. Fact and opinion usually go together in a nonfiction article or book.

This Week's Skills

On the Trail of Facts and Opinions

Here's a game we can play.

- Get a coin and any two different markers, such as a raisin and piece of macaroni.
- Put both your markers on the square marked "Start."
- Choose a subject which is familiar to both of you, such as a sport, a TV show, or peanut butter sandwiches.
- Flip the coin to see who goes first.
- Flip the coin again. If it lands "heads," move two spaces. If it lands "tails," move one space.
- Give a fact or an opinion about the subject.
- Continue taking turns until you have reached the end.

Dame una rima Voy a señalarte una palabra de la lista. Dime cuáles son las sílabas. Después podemos buscar rimas para las palabras y decir si la palabra que rima tiene el mismo número de sílabas.

Queridos familiares:

Estamos leyendo un artículo de no ficción Exploring the Undersea Territory. Se ocupa especialmente de una mujer, Sylvia Earle. Ella es famosa por zambullirse sin estar conectada ni a un submarino ni a un barco. El artículo provee muchos datos, o cosas que pueden comprobarse; también se presentan opiniones. La Sra. Earle cree que la ignorancia es la amenaza más grande a la que están expuestos nuestros recursos. Los hechos y las opiniones suelen aparecer juntos en un artículo o un libro de no ficción.

Chè manm fanmi :

N ap li atik non-fiksyon, "Exploring the Undersea Territory" a. Li pale sou yon fi an patikilye—Sylvia Earle. Li selèb pou plonje li te fè san l pa tache ak yon soumaren oswa yon bato. Genyen anpil fè, bagay moun ka pwouve. Genyen opinyon tou. Mis Earle kwè yorans se pi gwo menas nou genyen konsènan resous nou yo. Souvan fè ak opinyon mache ansanm nan yon atik non-fiksyon oswa yon liv.
