Dear Family Member:

We're reading Mother to Tigers in class this week. It's a biography of Helen Martini, who set up the first nursery for baby animals in a zoo. The author tells us her story from when she first began treating baby animals at home to when the Bronx Zoo gave her a place to care for young animals. He tells us how her work led to animal nurseries all over America. I think the author wrote this story because he believed we should all help take care of animals. He used Helen Martini as an example. He also wanted us to know her story.

PALABRAS DE ORTOGRAFÍA

Cambio inesperado Te voy a dar una palabra para deletrear. Después de deletrearla, ¿puedes cambiar el sufijo y usar ful, less o ly como terminación? Esto no va a funcionar con todas las palabras.

Queridos familiares:

Estamos leyendo Mother to Tigers en la clase esta semana. Es una biografía de Helen Martini, una mujer que estableció una guardería para animales bebés en un zoológico. El autor nos cuenta la historia de ella desde la primera vez que comenzó a tratar a animales bebés en su casa hasta que el zoológico del Bronx le dio un lugar para cuidar a los animales bebés. Él nos cuenta cómo el trabajo de ella llevó a que se establecieran guarderías de animales por todo Estados Unidos. Pienso que el autor escribió este relato porque cree que todos debemos ayudar a cuidar a los animales. Él usó a Helen Martini como un ejemplo. Además, él también quería que conociéramos la historia de ella.

Chè manm fanmi :

N ap li Mother to Tigers nan klas semèn sa a. Se yon byografi Helen Martini, ki te mete sou pye premye enfimri pou tibebe zannimo nan yon zou. Otè a rakonte nou istwa li apatide moman li te premye kòmanse trete tibebe zannimo lakay li pou rive nan lè Bronx Zoo a ba l yon kote pou l pran swen jèn zannimo yo. Otè a di nou fason travay Helen te ouvri opòtinite pou gen lòt enfimri pou zannimo toupatou Ozetazini. Mwen panse otè a te ekri istwa sa a paske li te kwè nou tout dwe ede pran swen zannimo yo. Li te itilize Helen Martini kòm yon egzanp. Epitou li te vle pou nou konnen istwa li.
